COUNTY SCHOOL NEWS

Citizens of the county are invited to go to Stilson and Leefield to inspect the new buildings just erected at these places; especially those districts planning to build new school houses in the new consolidations. In each of these they have gotten real bargains in the way of school buildings.

Mr. Arthur McCorkel has been selected truck driver for the new Castle section of the new Nevills Consolidated School district. Mr. McCorkel has purchased a truck with Russell gear, which gives him a sixty capacity truck which he figures will be ample to care for the children he has to transport. The other drivers for the Nevills routes are Messrs. Wiley W. Nesmith and Olive Hodges. Mr. Nesmith has arranged to take care of the two routes north and west with one car by a slight rearrangement of the routes. These men were selected by the Nevills trustees and recommended to the county board of education for their approval.

Teachers who wish to renew their licenses will not have to come to Statesboro until the 31st inst. On the 30th, the Elementary B and C examinations will be held. The class A Elementary and High School examinations will be Saturday, July 31st. If your license has expired and you have failed to attend a summer school for at least five weeks, you will be required to stand this examination. Don't expect to get a chance at a special later on in the year.

We are forced to wait until the tax receiver has his books approved by the comptroller general before we can arrange our budget for the term of 1926-27. Within a few weeks we should be able to know with a degree of certainty what we are to expect in the way of local tax for common school maintenance from our county-wide levy.

Local tax districts should revise the lists of property holders during the next few weeks so that none of the property may be left off. Make it cover all the property to be fair to all. You have a list which you should go over carefully and see if you have left off some last year. In new districts where new levies have ever been made, by all means get a list of all the property within your districts and make up the list before you come to make your levy.

It is necessary for local treasurers to make annual reports at the end of June each year instead of January, as has been the custom heretofore. But few have made these reports. Please make up your annual reports at once and submit them to this office. Do not wait until you begin your fall term of school. You will get your accounts mixed if you wait and it will be harder to keep your records straight. Come on and make up your annuals at once.

The ordinary is to be presented with a petition to call an election for the purpose of voting a local tax in the new Ogeechee Consolidated School District in the near future. They mean business in the 48th. They see they must move forward to have the kind of school they need for their children in this section.

Students are already selecting the Georgia Normal College for their school for next year. They see that they are to be given real advantages there in the courses they are offering. The personnel of the faculty is such as to inspire the utmost confidence. Prospective students should make a personal investigation of the many advantages this modern college is offering before they decide to go further away to a college that cannot give them the advantages they can secure at the Georgia Normal. Remember you will secure full credit for what you do at the Georgia Normal just as you would were you to go to the oldest institution of this kind in the South. One splendid feature that many will appreciate is that high school students may qualify to enter the college department right here in the Georgia Normal. The 9th grade will be maintained this year at least. You are permitted to finish your high school education here before you are ready to enter the normal department which is an advantage to be taken by many students. Other normal colleges of the state have dropped this important preparatory department.

The citizens of the Byrd, Central, Tyson Grove and Alderman school districts are considering consolidation of these districts into one school district. A movement is under way to bring about an election to consolidate. What will be done about this matter, depends on what the citizens living there really desire. Consolidations must have the support of the citizens affected to make them satisfactory in every way.

PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN

"I've often noticed," says John McDougald, "that about the time a man is fixed for life he has worried himself to death."

"If there were more hands rocking the cradle," declares Edwin Groover, "there would be less rocking of the matrimonial boat."

"A jack is that little notched business that lies on the garage floor while your tire is flat 10 miles away," says Percy Averitt.

Pete Donaldson says that just because a congressman declares he is going to do a thing is no sign that he isn't going to do it.

"As a usual thing the honeymoon ends about the time he can't think of any new pet names to call her," says Walter McDougald.

Jack Murphy says the man who yearns for a real thrill ought to try to eat a biscuit made by the girl who wins in a beauty contest.

Sonny Donaldson says a lot of young fellows attract more attention when they turn up their trousers than when they turn up their toes.

"Thank the Lord for home," says Leroy Cowart. "You can hang up your hat there without paying a check girl a dime to get it back."

"My idea of a brute of a man," asserts Albert Deal, "is the fellow who won't shave when his wife tells him for the third time that company is coming."

"Too much clothing is said to be fatal to residents of the Dutch Colonies in Africa. But our modern American dappers are safe," is the observation of Paul Franklin.

POLITICAL

FOR STATE SENATOR.
To the Voters of Bulloch County:
I hereby announce my candidacy for the State Senate from the forty-ninth district, subject to the next State Democratic primary in September.
HOWELL CONE.

FOR STATE LEGISLATURE.
To the Voters of Bulloch County:
I am again offering myself as a candidate for representative in the legislature from Bulloch County. I appreciate the confidence you have reposed in me in the past, and have endeavored to serve you faithfully while in the legislature. If you honor me again with your confidence, I shall do my best to truly represent you.
J. V. BRUNSON.

To the Voters of Bulloch County:
I offer myself again as a candidate for the legislature from Bulloch County. You have been generous to me in the past, and in all my acts I have been mindful of my obligation to serve you faithfully. There has been my highest aim and shall continue so to be if you again honor me as your representative.
JOHN C. PARRISH.

To the Voters of Bulloch County:
I am a candidate for the legislature from Bulloch County, subject to the rules for the approaching primary. I have no high-sounding promises of great things to be done, but give you my solemn pledge that I will endeavor to faithfully represent the county in such a way as to best serve the people. I shall appreciate your support.
C. B. GRINER.

To the Voters of Bulloch County:
I hereby announce my candidacy for the state legislature from Bulloch County, subject to the next Democratic primary on September 8, 1926.
H. D. BRANNEN.

CONGRESSMAN EDWARDS OFFERS FOR RENOMINATION.
If the people think my services and record have been faithful, I will appreciate being returned to Congress. I have accomplished much, and have much under way for our section, and would like to remain here another term to continue on the work I have under way, with which the people are familiar.

I am against a tax on cotton or other farm products and have so voted in every session of the legislature. I am for a law to stand for all that is for the interest of the farmer and against all that is to his detriment. My record is an open book. No candidate should attempt to win except upon his own merit. A man cannot build himself up by pulling down the character and reputation of his fellow man. My campaign will be on a high plane and free from spite and strife.

As the campaign progresses I will have an opportunity to see the people and get before them my views on various matters.

I respectfully solicit and will appreciate the support of all voters, men and ladies, in the Democratic primary to be held in September, and if elected I will continue to render the best service of which I am capable.

Yours respectfully,
CHAS. G. EDWARDS.

ought to be another law

Before the law-making bodies shut down for always, there ought to be a law made; and it ought to be made good and strong and unequivocal.

And that law should be one requiring people you pass on the streets to tell you whether it is you or someone else they are looking at and smiling at. No, that law ought not to be made applicable especially to cross-eyed people, either.

And there's a reason for this observation. A day or two ago as the editor of this interesting sheet walked out of the front door of his modest sanctum, there rode swiftly down the street a fellow who was not beautiful young fellow, but from the lines of his cheeks, they may have come direct from one or all of Statesboro's leading drug stores. They interested us greatly and looked directly toward us and smiled. They bowed and waved their hands. Our eyes being glued in their direction, there was no possible way for us to know that a handsome young Statesboro lad was directly in line behind us, and that he was drinking in the same smiles and the same cordial salutation that delighted us so much. Now, in all fairness, could a man with only one eye, and they in the front of his head, both busy for the moment, know that Jim Watson was lifting his hat and waving his hand back at those two girls at the same moment we were doing that?

And that's why we want another law. If those girls were beaming on us, we want Jim Watson to know it. If they were beaming on him, there ought to be some law to make Jim get away from behind us. We contend in all seriousness that it's not fair to let a man with only one eye right before our eyes.

We were stating our case to Jack Murphy a few minutes later. Jack is not only a philosopher, but was a lawyer before law books came into vogue. He joined us in our demand for more legislation. He had once had an experience in the same line—only worse—long ago in his bachelor days. He was at prayer meeting with his girl and sat on the seat nearest the choir. At the end of the seat just behind him, and exactly in line with him, sat Jack Johnson, one of the staunchest members of the church.

Following a song, the leader looked directly at him and requested, "Brother Jack, please lead us in prayer." Jack didn't know how to start a prayer, how to keep it going, or how to end it, but he knew he couldn't fail when called upon in the presence of the girl in whose sight he wanted to be regarded as a hero. He stammered through some words and thought he had covered himself with a fair amount of glory until, on the way home, some jealous boys informed him that he had bawled through answering to the call intended for another man to pray. Following a few words of profanity, Jack took a solemn pledge to never again answer anybody unless his name was called in definite and specific terms. Jack thinks there ought to be a retroactive law covering his case as well as the one of which we are complaining. He says he was acting in perfect faith when he put up that prayer, and if he did cuss a little when the boys teased him about it, he doesn't think that ought to count against him. Jack says that, next to making an argument in behalf of a guilty client, the hardest thing he ever tried was to pray for something when he didn't know what it was or whether he needed it, nor what he'd do with it if he got it.

Jack Murphy and this writer are not going to be absolutely content till we get a law making it compulsory for people to specify what and who they mean when they wave their hands towards you on the streets, or when they call on you to perform in prayer meetings.

THOUGHT FOR THE FUTURE

(Contribution to G. N. S. from "The Green Frogs" Athletic Group, by Roberta Hunter, Group Correspondent.)

1. A basic fund for an arch-way over entrance of the gate to the grounds.

2. Trees to be planted on the campus, and transplanted from Miss Inez Williams' farm. On this Bulloch county farm grow every variety of tree from the evergreen, dogwood, mimosa, oak and magnolia to the famous Georgia pine.

G. N. S. Chimes.

"Poems are made by fools like me, But only God can make a tree." Trees stand so tall and darkly green, Strange and lovely things they've seen.

They are so stately, fragrant, wise, Growing upward toward the blue skies.

So G. N. S. we leave to thee A heritage, the lovely tree, Called by the name of faculty. First the holly—bright and right, For E. V. Hollis of the keen insight. For Wells, an oak so sturdy, strong. We trust God will wish his life prolong. The other trees name as you please, Except one—just one of these—For Mrs. Deal the Georgia pine, Like Mrs. Deal, famous and fine.

McGLAMMERY'S DEATH NOT DUE TO ACCIDENT

matter of responsibility straightened up and to assume whatever of it belonged to them. First going to the physician, they learned from Dr. A. Temple that he did not consider Mr. McGlammer's death in any direct measure due to the injuries sustained. The doctors explained that he had been called Sunday morning to treat him for a trouble with which he had suffered for years, and that Mr. McGlammer did not mention to him any sort of accident except casually on Monday, when he called the second time. At that time, he said, Mr. McGlammer had told him about being struck and had made a statement that some woman had bathed his head with kerosene and some man had given him a strychnine tablet. It was this last statement that gave rise to the report that a well-known physician had driven the car which struck the man. It transpires, however, that the camphor treatment and the tablet were pure vagaries of Mr. McGlammer's mind, since Mr. Hendley and Mr. Sutton aver that they had nothing of the sort with them and that they did not suspect Mr. McGlammer's condition to be such as to call for any sort of ministrations.

Before leaving town Friday afternoon, the gentlemen called at the McGlammer home to meet the family in distress and to convey to them their sincere regret that they had been in even a remote way suspected of suspicion of responsibility for the sad affair.

Mr. Sutton, whose car struck Mr. McGlammer, brought his family with him from Ozone, Fla., to visit Mr. Hendley's family. Mrs. Sutton is a sister of Mrs. Hendley, her father being Mitch Collins, who moved from Bulloch to the same county, Fla., near a third of a century ago. Mr. Sutton is a man of more than ordinary intelligence and of pleasing manner. He had planned to return Friday for a day in order to get the funeral arrangements straightened out, but he was so unexpectedly and unpleasantly attached to him as he was about to leave.

ROBERT E. LEE AND THE PENNSYLVANIA YANKEES

To the Bulloch Times:

I read a piece in a paper some time ago where, in Williamsport, Pa., a Yankee of the Civil War in making a speech at some town, made the remark that Gen. Lee ought to have been hanged as a traitor when the war ended and his gallows put in the museum at Washington for the coming generations to look at. I would bet $100 if he would come down in Georgia and let three or four old Rebs hear him, in five minutes time he wouldn't have hair nor hide on him. I know those Pennsylvanians. They were known as "Red Bone Penns" in times of yore. I know a heap about those Yankees. Some of them were good and some of them were as mean as could be.

Winnie Davis, "Daughter of the Confederacy" was at college in New York and a Yankee that belonged to Georgia died and went to the school to march with his casket to the cemetery and sing "Marching Through Georgia," with the class that Winnie was in front, sixteen young ladies in the class. As soon as Winnie discovered that the song they were to sing was "Marching Through Georgia," a soldier to be marching through Georgia like soldiers should do to make music for the dead, I reckon, she would not go, and said she would not do anything to throw a slur on her southern friends. She quit the school in a few days for some cause or some slur. While she was in New York she engaged herself to marry a Yankee named Wilkins; was advertised in New York papers and was soon known all over the southern states. The old soldiers began to write to her and begged her to not marry that man, and promised if she ever came to need a pension she could have $100 a month if she needed it. I would have been like the rest when the hat passed around, if I had one dollar I would have chipped in half of that. So you will see she backed out and never married the Yankee, and I hope her blessed soul is safe in heaven today.

In my next letter I want to tell about the hot day in July, 1860.

W. R. WHITAKER.

Run-Down gave out easily

"MY health wasn't any account at all," says Mrs. H. L. Clayton, of Washington, N. C. "I would start to do my housework and I would give out before I had done anything at all. I did not have any strength, and the least thing it seemed to tax me so I could not finish. I was run-down sure enough. Several of my friends had taken Cardui, and they said to me, 'Why don't you try it?' I knew I needed something to build up my general health and to increase my strength. 'Finally one day when I was recovering from a spell of sickness, I decided to try Cardui. I got a bottle and began to take it. I could notice that I was improving as my appetite got better and I did not give out nearly so quick. I took several bottles and I felt lots better. 'Two years ago I decided to take it again. It built me up and made me feel like a different person. It is the greatest medicine for women that I know anything about.'"

GARFIELD BOYS ATTACHED TO TWENTY-SECOND INFANTRY

The boys in camp are in fine spirits and all are enjoying the best of health. Having passed the rigid entrance examination, all the successful candidates were attached to the Twenty-second Infantry for training.

After being issued the necessary clothing and equipment for their comfort while in camp, the entire group assembled at the Open Air Theatre, where they were greeted by the Camp Commander, Brigadier-General Joseph D. Leitch, and by Colonel George F. Baltzell, commander of the Twenty-second Infantry and the C. M. T. C.

The officers of the camp have expressed their pleasure at the very high type of boys attending this year's camp, among whom are the following: from Garfield: Doy Gay, Hinch B. Gay and Dobson M. Gay.

WHAT RUSSELL REPRESENTS

Richard Russell, chief justice of the supreme court and candidate for the United States Senate to succeed Senator George, may possess all the virtues he attributes to himself. He may be sincere in his desire to save the United States from what he conceives to be a dire danger of participation of a world's court. He may pose as a patriot who is willing to make the needful sacrifice to save our country in her hour of danger.

But the people of Georgia are going to bear in mind one phase of his past which he has studiously refrained from exploiting in the present emergency—his record as a candidate for governor of Georgia on a wet ticket.

So far as the people of the state of Georgia are generally aware, Dick Russell became possessed of a burning desire to serve Georgia about 25 years ago, when he offered as a candidate for the position he now holds, chief justice of the supreme court.

He was very completely set down upon in favor of Chief Justice Simmons. After having a respectable breathing spell, the ever-ambitious Russell ran for governor in the memorable race in which Hoke Smith defeated the field. For a brief time the people were relieved of his presence, but four years later, when Hoke Smith defeated Joe Brown for the governorship, had served a brief term in office and then gone to the senate to succeed Joe Terrell, leaving a vacancy, Dick Russell again was a candidate for governor in the field with Pope Brown and Joe Brown. He had local opinion as opposed to state-wide prohibition as the principal issue in his platform. Let it be said to the credit of Georgians that he ran a poor third in that race, in which Joe Brown was again re-elected. True, Russell didn't quit running for office. He went upon the appellate court bench through election the next fall, and served there till he decided to run for congress in his district and was properly trimmed. Dick Russell, what time he is not holding office, is running. Somehow, it transpires that he has a stronger hold upon the voters away from home than at home, for he got back on the supreme court bench as quickly as possible after sliding off the court of appeals. He still presides as chief justice, and, for aught we know or would dare to assert, he is all right in his law decisions.

But Dick Russell's position on the liquor question when he ran for governor the second time has stamped him for all time. The liquor people of Georgia, wherever you find them, are going to support him for the senate. The world's court is not the big issue with him or them; though he will attempt to hold it prominently before him as a shield. The church people of Georgia—not only the Baptists, but the people of the other churches who stand for prohibition—are going to remember the time he ran on a wet ticket. Senator George is not running on his religion, but he is running on the right platform, and he ought not to even have to worry about the outcome.

A Boston man drew 7 years in the pen for kissing a girl. But lots of men were sentenced for life after similar misdemeanors.

TEXAS VINDICATED

Texas has shown additional evidences of returning sanity. In her Saturday's election she went as far as she would could in her effort to undo the foolish thing she did two years ago when she let the Ferguson into the executive chair. James Ferguson had previously been governor. His administration was so fraught with corruption that he was impeached and fired from office with the disability resting upon him of his ineptitude to ever again hold office in Texas.

Texas people are about like the balance of the people in the United States. They are mighty sympathetic for a man caught in crime. Jim Ferguson's wife loved her husband, and she wanted him vindicated. She appealed to the people to set their stamp of approval upon him just once more, and, like foolish people moved by sympathy often do, they gave her what she asked for. The Ferguson had not finished their "vindication" term before they were mixed up in some more questionable affairs. They didn't get impeached, but they got exposed to a considerable extent. Mrs. Ferguson was not satisfied with the one term of "vindication" so she asked for some more. The people were through for the time being, and they threw her out by a majority of more than 100,000 against the Ferguson. Of course they will sooner or later bob up again, and they may come back for vindication, but until then, let us congratulate Texas upon her latest effort—which is a vindication of Texas.

STRANGE CROSSINGS

We wonder how many motorists know that a train going 40 miles an hour covers 50 feet a second, and that it cannot be stopped in less than a quarter of a mile? If every one who drives a car would take his lead pencil and figure a moment he would find that a train can cover 300 feet in five seconds, and not be running faster than 40 miles an hour. That 300 feet is a good safe distance to be from a railroad track, and five seconds is very little time to lose when negotiating a crossing. We believe a realization of this one little fact should be sufficient to make drivers more careful, to even cause some of them to come to a dead stop before proceeding over a railroad crossing that is new and strange to them. It certainly impresses us with the danger of taking chances on getting across before the train thunders along, and we sincerely hope it will strike some of our readers as forcibly as it does us.

WEATHER WARNINGS

Here's what we would call worse and more of it than a professor in the University of Detroit predicts this will be the last worst winter we will ever have, and that it will continue to grow cooler each year until the world is again the "ice age." He also asserts that the glaciers in the arctic circle are shifting and that eventually they will again be as far down in North America as the Canadian line.

Persons who dread the task of firing a furnace or a base-burner will not thank the Michigan man for this prediction. For the fact is the average man in this section is about ready to believe that there may be more truth than poetry in what he says. This summer has been made up of so many peculiar kinds of weather that nothing seems impossible, and the statement that the icebergs are closer to us than for hundreds of years sounds very plausible.

From every part of the country come reports of unusual weather conditions. People are sleeping under blankets in places where cool weather is being known at this season. Summer resorts and bathing beach operators are said to be facing bankruptcy and merchants generally are complaining that their stocks of warm weather wearing apparel are not moving as they usually do. We don't know how close the professor is going to come to hitting it. In fact, we hope we will not be around if his prediction comes true. But we do know that something has slipped a cog somewhere, and that about the only way the weather man can win back our friendship will be to send us a winter just as warm as this summer has been cool.

MOVING AROUND

Variety may be the spice of life and some people may never be satisfied unless they are "on the go," but a desire for variety, for moving around, is declared by the government to be costing American people a lot of money. It is said that approximately 4,000,000 Americans moved during the past spring, and that the cost totalled about $68,000,000.

Just think how far it would go if that amount of money had been put into new homes. As it is all the movers got out of it was a few new neighbors, who may or may not be congenial, a new location, which may or may not please them, and a lot of discomfort and inconvenience. But spring is not the only time this shifting about takes place. Fall brings the restlessness, too, and if you will notice a little later on you will see numerous families pulling out for new locations. It seems to be human nature to want to be "on the go" or to imagine that the best thing is over on the other side of the stream.

If you are financially situated and doing as well financially as the average man of your age and ability—stay where you are. Moving costs money, and in a majority of cases, when everything is taken into consideration, you will not be any better off, and you may be far worse off, than where you are. Learning to be well enough alone is one of life's most valuable lessons, and if you've ever done any moving you probably know by this time that in the long run it doesn't pay.

Slat's Diary

(By Rosa Farquhar.)

Friday—James pa has went and got him self a job as Bill Collekter. Ant Emmy was a talking about his job as a Bill Collekter and she said it was a mighty hard job to be a Bill Collekter. Pa said O your crazy wife, the heat Ant Emmy it aint hard to collect Bills why I've got a hole ton of Bills up in my desk and by the 1st of the month I will have a plenty more.

Saturday—Sum of those there old sayings aint got much to them. Today when I was up to the city with ma and Ant Emmy on a shopping expedition why I hant a nice Peri neckles and bring it home & give it to ma and when she looks at it she sed, Why Ant Emmy it came from the 10c store. Thats what it did but I dont see where they figger that Love is blind.

Sunday—just becuz Mrs. Gillem is kinda near sited got her in trouble this afternoon & she and Mr. Gillem was out to the Park and she got tired and went to set down on a bench and then she found out it was oney a shadow she set on.

Munday—Mamey Soder wont speke to pa no more. She was after a job and give pa as 1 of her reference and they rode and art pa what did he no about her past and he rode back and sed it was a offie long note and when she found out about it she was madder a hornit.

Tuesday—I had to left at Ant Em. this afternoon & they was a Agent cum to the house and wrang the door for me and when Ant Emmy went to the door he was a selling Vacuum cleaners and Ant Emmy sed well we havent got enny vacuumes to clean. Wednesday—I was up so late last night that today when I was talking to Jane I sed to her, Honest I am so tired I dont no wether I am asleep or awake. Jane sed she often wondered about that, even when I was tired. A woman can sure say mean sentences.

Thursday—Ma says my manners is getting better. I dont eat ofa my nife no more and I dont drink out of my sawser but its offie hard to brake myself of sucking the soup.

MANY NEW FEATURES AT SAVANNAH FAIR

Savannah, Ga., July 27.—Constant demand for something new and different, with a novel effect that will appeal to old and young alike, has caused the Georgia State Fair management to arrange a harmonica contest during the big week, September 27-October 2. This will be the first assembly of wind-instrument soloists ever held at the Georgia State Fair.

The very nature of the competition should make it attractive to listeners as well as performers. Harmonica music is known today over the country as one of the softest and sweetest produced from the mouth. In many sections harmonica, or mouth-organ, playing is encouraged in the schools as a simple foundation of children's musical education. That it holds a fascination all its own can be fully realized when it is remembered that the Nixon School, Chicago, has a harmonica orchestra of 200 members.

While it is generally thought that boys and girls, alone, are the principal harmonica enthusiasts, such theory will be disproved at the Georgia State Fair as the competition is open to everyone. Three of the highest priced harmonicas have been offered as prizes by M. Hohner, Inc., New York City, widely known manufacturers of this instrument. As the contest will be the first at the Georgia State Fair this year, it has been decided to have the competing players assemble each afternoon in the Johnson Building. Judges will be selected from the Savannah Music Club. No particular day was set for the contest this year, as players from visiting counties will attend the fair on different days. Hence, each afternoon the judges will hear those who happen to be at the fair that day. Notes will be taken during the week, and on Saturday the judges will announce their decision of the three best.

Those who play harmonicas, men, women, boys, or girls, should send their entries at once to Barney Smucker, manager, Georgia State Fair, Savannah. In a few weeks descriptive matter of the contest will be sent to county agents who will give these interested such other information desired.

Just about every two or three months the average married couple shows the need of a peace conference.

FARMERS UNION ENDORSES EDWARDS FOR RE-ELECTION

The fact that the Farmers Union and other organizations representing the toiling masses endorsed Congressman Charles G. Edwards for re-election at its meeting in Atlanta a few days ago, should convince the people that Congressman Edwards' record is satisfactory to the farmers. Evidently they thought Edwards voted right when he voted against the taxes on cotton and other farm products, as carried in the Lee Moore (Haugen) cotton tax bill. Mr. Edwards voted against these taxes, as did Senators Harris and George, and as did Congressmen Crisp, Vinson, Bell, Lee, Upshaw, Brand and Wright of Georgia. Mr. Edwards voted against these taxes, as did 85 or 90 per cent of the Southern Senators and Congressmen, and he was right. Mr. Moore, his opponent, has declared for the Haugen bill, which would impose these taxes, "investments" they are nothing but taxes and the people know it. Why try to fool the folks by calling the tax an "investment"?

If you are against these "equalization fees" and taxes, vote for Congressman Edwards, who is fighting them and who is running on an "anti-tax" platform.

In Texas, the greatest cotton state in the Union, every congressman who voted against the Haugen bill has been re-elected in a recent election.—Advertisement.

Wonder what has become of the old-fashioned man who used to think he had to have a seersucker to get through the summer.

Every girl knows that no matter how many divorces there may be, there will always be marriages as long as there are can openers.

When father asks mother for a half-cup of coffee, mother fills his cup full so father will have something to get mad at.

Why is it that every time something is done to relieve the farmer he has to put a new mortgage on the place?

When father asks mother for a half-cup of coffee, mother fills his cup full so father will have something to get mad at.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Little G. C. Coleman entertained twenty of his little friends at the home of his parents on College street Thursday afternoon in celebration of his sixth birthday. Miss Wilma Brannen assisted with the games and in serving ice cream, crackers and lemonade.

SUPPER AND BRIDGE PARTY.

A very pretty compliment to Miss Lele McGee of Eastman, the attractive guest of Miss Annie Brooks Grimes, was the buffet supper and bridge party Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. S. Edwin Groover as hosts.

On the prettily appointed table was a silver basket filled with light pink snapdragons, and on either side were tall silver candle sticks holding blue tapers. The sun parlor, hall and living room were thrown together and tastefully decorated with bright colored zenias. The honor guests were given a lavender handkerchief and a deck of cards as a score prize for the men and was won by Frank Simmons. Guests were in-cluded for four tables. The hosts were assisted by Mrs. Inman Foy. The supper was served in four courses.

PRETORIUS-RUSSELL.

Brooklet, Ga., July 28.—A beautiful wedding of the week was that of Miss Christ Pretorius and James Marion Russell of Holly Hill, S. C., which was solemnized at the home of the bride's father, Mr. W. H. Crouse, forming the ring ceremony.

The home was beautifully decorated in yellow and white. An improvised altar entwined with southern holly and ivy was the focal point. The bride wore a lovely gown of white with a lace train. The groom wore a tuxedo. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. J. Minzey, pastor of the Baptist church in Wauchoola, Fla. The wedding party consisted of the bride, groom, bridesmaids, best man, flower girls, ring bearer, and ushers. The reception was held at the home of the bride's father. The supper was served in four courses.

The New Sanitary Electric Meat Cutter now used in our market. Steaks and chops are made uniformly and of even thickness so they cook better and evenly. There are no bone splinters on the steaks, chops, stew meats, soup meats or bones.

Electric meat cutting involves no handling of your meats and is therefore entirely sanitary.

Steaks and chops will fry in their own suet as the meat can be cut so as to cover it with a fine film of its own fat—a very fine and superior cooking medium.

We are able to serve you better and conduct our business on the most economical basis so that quality meats can be sold to you at the lowest possible prices.

SENATOR GEORGE GIVES ACCOUNT OF HIS RECORD

TELLS VOTERS HOW HE STANDS ON PUBLIC ISSUES AND GIVES HIS REASONS.

In a speech of more than a hour and a half in duration, Senator W. F. George spoke to the voters of Bulloch county at the court house last Thursday at the noon recess of the superior court.

His speech was a calm, intelligent and dispassionate statement of his conduct while in the senate, and he made clear many important questions about which the people are generally in the dark.

Senator George reserved the issue of the world court until the last, but he made it one of the most surprising answers to a campaign issue that has been heard here in a long time.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "the world court is already in existence. It was set up five years ago by other nations. It is a court where the United States can go if it desires to bring any matter before it. It is not a court as we know them in our own town and county. No one can be summoned or haled there, it is a nation goes to it voluntarily or it stays away."

"I voted for a bill in the senate which would give the American government authority to carry a matter before the world court after the president had agreed to it. It is not a court as we know them in our own town and county. No one can be summoned or haled there, it is a nation goes to it voluntarily or it stays away."
